

HOLLYWOOD PRIVATE HOSPITAL

CARDIOLOGIST: Michael Davis

ANAESTHETIST: Patrick Colman

Last Cardio-version 15/9/14

Today, Tuesday 20/1/15 left for hospital about 11.20, Greg happy, for once a spare ACROD Bay.

C.C.U. ROOM 1, for CARDIO-VERSION @ 12.30

ADMISSION 11.50

DISCHARGED 3 25

4 HOURS ALL UP!

Haley walked us to ADMISSIONS. Usual paperwork + Q & A, right arm tagged. Female concierge walked us through to CCU Room 1 @ 11.50. We waited but all quiet. Greg checked at desk to see if they knew I was here. Yes!

Awhile later, Nurse Meagan (we have met several time previously) got me into bed & gowned up, oxygen monitor on my left index finger, BP/pulse monitor on my left arm @ 12.25 while Cardio Mike Davis impatiently waited behind door curtain, eventually saying he was coming in.

Although pleasant enough to me, Mike harangued Meagan while she was quickly putting my ECG-CV monitor studs on. He interfered & kept saying she was putting them in the wrong place, pulling them off & replacing them. Don't mind me! Good on her, because Meagan handed them all to him & asked him to put them on.

All was happening @ breakneck speed. Mike was asking me Q's while Meagan was trying to get a good ECG reading. She told us all to be quiet, good on her again. Then the cardioversion pads on; Greg still in room, first time he has got to see this far, - interesting, but then he was sent off to the visitor waiting room.

Mike is a 60 year old alpha male, whom I did not take to. I didn't like his treatment of the nurses & his asking Qs of me of which he answered or surmised & didn't listen to my responses. No foot ID put on & no blood work done.

Pat, the anaesthetist arrived, young, polite & friendly. He was about to put the cannula in my left hand but I told him that it wouldn't work there so he was happy to put it in my left forearm where I suggested asking me ' What is the name of the Capital of Belgium?' I was distracted; as was his plan, but not because I didn't know the Capital is Brussels but that Greg & me had been discussing Brussels yesterday. A too large (as always) oxygen mask on, Pat asked my weight - 48kgs then asked me to do some deep breathing, I took longer to nod off, when he asked how I was feeling, I said, 'fine thanks'! Then I was out.

I roused Pat was there, not Mike (he's off talking to Greg). All gone well, one zap did the trick.

Meagan, fiddled with equipment & then went 'to get my boy'.

Nurse Daisy, also known to me pops in to read charts & tells me 'you have sleepy now'.

I drowse, then am allowed to have water & take my usual meds. It's 1.50pm. I am given the usual freezing, tasteless sandwiches for lunch which I share half with Greg.

Then we wait for Dr Davis to come back to give me the all clear.

Afternoon shift nurse comes in, I have to sit on side of the bed for a mo, am fine, so go for wee, get dressed & we make a run for the exit. It's 3.25.

Although this was a very efficient CV, it was a tad fast for my liking. Pat was kind & gracious, I would ask for him again if Harmeet was not around, but do not intend seeing Cardio Dr Davis again.
