INR result not ready by discharge

MAGNESIUM - 4.1 - good

POTASSIUM - 4.8 - good

Although in CCU my room was not prepared with any care, more of a store area for 2 old pump, trolley beds, chairs on pare bed & my bed thrown together rather than 'made'. No blanket. Nevertheless better than ASSESSMENT. Nurse Meagan who was working in ASSESSMENT came over to visit when she hear a rumour that I was here. Very sweet!

Male nurse Anthony, put my cannula in at my request left forearm. I warned him my INR wa 4.2 so I would most likely bleed he took no precautions & as a result, blood sealed onto the bed & along my arm. Nurse Allyson sorted out my ECG & another nurse (?) mainly did the rest of the leg work. Susan arrived on time as did Harmeet who was disappointed that he didn't get to put the Cannula in for me, as was I. Greg left, I got prepped all good, I came to within 15 mins & was more with it than after previous zaps. Harmeet stayed while bloods were taken, he even got me a glass of water. I stayed until 6:00 after having dressed & walked around the ward with mobile monitor on. Was offered something to eat but declined. Relatively acceptable experience.

9:00, while sitting on couch talking on phone to Nancy I went into arrhythmia for several mins, I stood & arrhythmia turned into a racing heart for a couple of mins. I ended the call & my beats turned ectopic every 5-10 beats. Uncomfortably unsettling.

Next day less frequent ectopic beats varying from 5-50 beats.
